Management of Severe Deformities in Foot & Ankle Surgery

October 25 – 26, 2019
São Paulo, Brazil

Chairmen:
Prof. Dr. Alexandre Leme Godoy-Santos, São Paulo, Brazil
Prof. Dr. Dr. Victor Valderrabano, Basel, Switzerland

Foreword

Dear colleagues,

Painful defects and injuries of Foot and Ankle are among the most frequent musculoskeletal orthopaedic diseases. Their operative care always presents us with medical and technical challenges.

Strategy and method, the right osteosynthesis procedure as well as the appropriate materials are crucial elements for the postoperative function of the Foot and Ankle, and thus for the welfare of the patients.

Lectures on the state of science and progress in the field of Foot and Ankle Surgery on the one hand and the joint discussions about concrete cases and medical evidence on the other constitute the framework of the first course day. Great emphasis is thus put on the presentation of current treatment options.

The second day of the course focuses on the practical training on fresh frozen specimens.

A highly experienced international faculty will support and guide the participants through the exercises.

We would be delighted to welcome you to these practical days here in São Paulo.
