Foreword

Dear colleagues,

It gives me great pleasure, on behalf of the JSSF, to be hosting the second collaborative event between IBRA, and the JSSF, here in Japan.

What makes this event special, is that our target audience targets the younger orthopedic surgeons of Foot & Ankle Surgery!

Last year‘s event at Dokkyo Medical University in November 2018, established the basic foundations and infrastructure for the Advanced course which was held over two long and exciting days and was event which not only was enjoyed as a social-event but importantly it brought a very clear message about the criticality of education.

Importantly, awareness to the Foot & Ankle Society not just globally but in our local areas and regional institutions - here in Japan - has to be a driving force and a regular part of our learning objectives and available infrastructure in support of sharing and developing together existing legacy and encouraging new ideas for all.

The absolute necessity of organizations such as IBRA., in support of the educational advancement of the Foot & Ankle surgeons‘ is very warmly received and hugely respected here in Japan.

The actual work that goes in to such event is largely unnoticed, so it is with the warmth and respect from all of us here at the JSSF - and its members, all the staff at Hokkaido Medical University and IBRA., that we are very excited and eagerly awaiting the second IBRA., event in Sapporo which is focused on teaching the basic principles in Foot & Ankle surgery from a basic level for our younger orthopedic surgeons of Foot & Ankle surgery.
